

MINISTER'S STATEMENT ON THE DFWA

I am pleased to be able to make a statement in support of the Defence Force Welfare Association. The Association is a great advocate for the welfare of both serving and former Defence members and their families.

The Association has a fifty year history of representing its members on issues such as conditions of service and has actively engaged with the government and other stakeholders over this time.

The Association has a presence across Australia and I encourage Defence members to access the free advocacy services available through the association and also to support the Association as members.
